THIRTEEN PERSONS KILLED BY FIRE

All the Dead Except One Are Young Women Employes of Paper Box Co.

BODIES BADLY BURNED

Pittsburgh Mayor Orders that Police, City Council and Coroner Make Investigation

SIX TRAPPED ON 2ND. FLOOR

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 25—Thirteen persons were killed and eight injured by a fire in a four-story building, the two upper floors of which were occupied by the Union Paper Box company, here this afternoon. Of the dead all were young women employed by the company, except one. Many of the bodies were so badly burned as to make identification difficult.

Mayor Orders Investigation.

Mayor Joseph Armstrong at once ordered that the police, city council and the coroner make a sweeping investigation of the catastrophe.

The dead:
Colletta Sellman, aged 19.
Henel Waner.
Sophia Zobok, 22.
Carolina Farrara, 15.
Dorotha Link, 16.
Florence Baker, 21.
Cecelia Joss, 17.
Berthe Dnuapple, 24.
Otillie Breinning, 20.
Laura Breinning, 24.
Myrtle Miller, 20.
Marcella Rauch, 17.
Peter Vallon.

Flames Start in Straw Pile.

The flames started in a pile of straw in the rear of the feed store of James Brown and company on the first floor of the building. William C. Kimel, general manager of the box factory, at once went to the third and fourth floors and warned the girls employed there to leave quietly. The flames gained headway so rapidly however, that escape by means of stairways and fire escapes was soon cut off.

Some of the girls attempted to go to the dressing room for their hats, and there huddled on floor, firemen found a majority of the bodies. James A. Bass and A. J. Seagle, employed on the second floor of the building, were about to jump when they were attracted by the screams of girls in the window above. The men told the girls to jump. One by one as the girls leaped, Bass and Seagle caught them, lowering them as far as they could and let them drop to the sidewalk.

C. R. Carlisle, driver of a transfer wagon, drove his wagon into an alley in the rear of the building and threw up a rope to girls in a window above. After making one end fast many slid down the rope to safety.

Girls Trapped on Second Floor.

Margaret Steigerwald, aged 17, who was injured by jumping from a third floor window, said she and five other girls were trapped in the building when somebody closed a door at the head of the stairway on the second floor.

"We got our wraps and started down the stairway", said Miss Steigerwald. "As we reached the second floor some person closed the door at the head of the stairway and we were trapped. We started back to the third floor but by that time the third flood was filled with smoke. We made for the windows. One girl pushed me away from a window and I was the last to jump."

One of the heroes of the fire was Peter Vallon, who is among the dead. When the fire was discovered he was working in the building. He groped his way through the smoke to the street where he heard girls frantically calling for help from the upper floors. Tying a handkerchief about his mouth he rushed into the building. Six times he staggered to the street with the unconscious form of a girl in his arms. When he failed to appear the seventh time, however, spectators called the attention of firemen who instituted a search and found Vallon's charred body on he second floor. Near him lay the body of a young girl whon he had evidently tried to rescue.

Francis Feehan, supervising inspector of the state department of labor and industry made an examination of the building after the fire. He asserted that fire escaped were inadequate.

Verdict of Italian Jury Gives Prisoner Time He Has Been Under Restraint --Will Return to American After Release.

Como, Italy, via Paris, Oct. 25.—Porter Charlton, the American who has been on trial charged with murdering his wife in 1910, was today condemned to six years and eight months imprisonment.

The jury found Charlton only partially responsible and that there were extenuating circumstances. Owing to amnesty Charlton will serve only twenty nine days in prison.

Charlton, under the verdict, benefits by the time he has been under restraint and in addition a year is taken off the sentence under the amnesty for all offenses committed before Italy entered the war.

Even though he was greatly pleased over the verdict of the court and viewed with pleasure his approaching liberation from custody, Charlton maintained his usual restraint and almost passive attitude. He thanked all those about him for their congratulations.

Charlton said that after his release he would return to the United States and join his family. Before departing, however, he said, he would visit and personally thank friends in Como, who by their kindness had lightened the hours of his incarceration and especially Ambasador Thomas Nelson Page, who, as the representative of the American government has seen that his legal rights were conserved.

BORDER BANDIT MAKES CONFESSION

Officers Believe They Are on Trail of Chief Offenders in Border Trouble

CHAPA DENIES STORY

Alleged Confession Says Prime Object of Raids Was to Secure Liberty for Mexicans

TELLS OF BAND'S MOVEMENTS

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Oct. 25—An alleged border bandit confession, claimed to have been received by the sheriff's department from Chano Flores, a Mexican prisoner, not only admits participation in last Monday night's train wreck and murders near here but involves several other Mexicans and leads the officers to believe they are on the trail of the chief offenders in the Texas border terrors of the past three months.

Luciano Chapa,a nother Mexican arrested with Flores, denies the story.

Sought "Liberty for Mexicans"

The alleged confession of Flores is said to be to the effect that the prime object of the series of raids has been to "secure liberty and independence for Mexicans in Texas". Robbery and loot, are of secondary importance. Flores is said by the sheriff's office to have confessed to taking part in a raid on a ranch at Sebastian, this county, several weeks ago in which a father, son and two stepsons were killed. The sheriff's office is authority for the statement that the alleged confession declares that Luis de la Rosas and Aniceto Pisano, reputed leaders of the "revolutionary forces", have been in Reynosa, Mexico, for the several weeks maintaining headquarters there.

The so-called Texas revolutionary army was said to have been described by Flores as a force of about 500 Mexicans divided into several companies. The particular companies that made the raids at Ojo de Agua, Progreso and other points up the river from here were unknown to Flores, according to his statements, but all were said to be under the general leadership of de la Rosa and Pisano, the authorities aver. Flores is said to have confessed that on the night of the wreck 30 or more Mexicans crossed the Rio Grande into Texas and were joined by 15 to 20 on this side where they said they laid plans for wrecking the train.

Describes Movement of Band.

Movements of the band after the wreck were described. The confession did not say why the bandits killed the soldiers and shot Dr. E. S. McCain and H. J. Wallis but permitted other Americans on the train to escape unharmed, the sheriff's officers related. It was reported here today that following the recent fight at Ojo de Agua, soldiers in chasing a man said to have been the leader of the band that attacked the troops there early Thursday came across a Mexican house where the man was said to have stopped. At the house he was said to have dropped a diary, now in the hands of the sheriff's officers. This diary contained, besides many names, what is purported to be the roll of the band and the regulations to be observed by members of the band.

The committee of citizens named at a mass meeting here Saturday to visit Austin and Washington to make an appeal for early relief on the border, departed late today. The committee expects to be in Austin tomorrow to confer with Governor Ferguson.

PLANNED TO HAMPER SHIPMENT OF ARMS

Details of Plot Are Disclosed in Confession of German Army Officer

FOUR ARE ARRESTED

Fay Admits He Came to America Through Agreement With German Secret Service

MAY MAKE REPRESENTATIONS

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Details of a plot to hamper the shipments of munitions of war to the allies by placing clock worked bombs on the rudders or propellors of ships, so timed that the ships would be disabled on their way across the Atlantic, were disclosed today in the confession of one of five men charged with conspiracy to violate a federal statute.

Detective Files Complaint.

Following upon the confession of Robert Fay, a lieutenant of the Sixteenth Saxony infantry who admitted that he came to this country last April through an agreement with the German secret service to blow up or delay steamers laden with war supplies for the allies, William J. Flynn, chief of the secret service, tonight filed before United States Commissioner Houghton a complaint in which not only Fay but four other men are charged with promoting the conspiracy. Fay confessed that while on the battlefield he talked with his superior officers about a device to blow up ships, that later his idea of coming to America and carrying his scheme through was well received by the German secret service; that he came well enough supplied with money to act on his own responsibility and that he talked with Captain Von Papen, military attache, and Captain K. Boy-Ed, naval attache of the German embassy, about the plan but they had refused to have anything to do with it.

The confession of Fay, who said he had been decorated with the iron cross, covers his arrival in the United States on April 22nd, last, his making of clock worked bombs since then and his activities in experimenting with explosives.

Find Quantities of Acid.

Quantities of acid in the rooms occupied by Fay and Walter L. Scholz in Weehaken, N. J., and boxes each containing 120 pounds of chlorate of potash used in making so-called sugar bombs in a boat house on the Hudson have been found after the arrest of these men on Sunday.

Scholz, a brother-in-law of Fay, is a mechanic.

Two other men were arrested today and another, making the fifth was named in the complaint, but he had not been apprehended. The new arrests were:

Paul Daeche, Jersey City, N. J., who said he was a graduate of Cologne University and came to the United States in 1912.

Dr. Herbert Kienzle, 28 years old, manager of a clock company, charged in the complaint with having aided in procuring explosive materials used by Fay.

Max Breitung about whose identity no details were disclosed had not been apprehended.

In his complaint Chief Flynn stated that Paul Siebs, formerly of the German army, had become a government witness. It was set forth that Siebs had received money from Fay and Breitung for chlorate of potash which was said to be part of the material found by detectives in the boat house.

May Make Vigorous Representations.

Washington, Oct. 25.—If the state department decides that Robert Fay is telling the truth in his story to the New York police as he, a lieutenant in the German army, was sent to this country by the German secret service for the purpose of disabling by explosives steamships leaving American ports for Europe, the matter probably will be made a subject of vigorous representations to the German government.

State department officials here were much interested today in press accounts of the confession said to have been made to police Commissioner Woods and it was said a report on the case was expected tomorrow from agents of the secret service who assisted in arresting Fay and his alleged accomplices.

The American government, the officials said, would regard such an action as Fay attributes to the German secret service as an offense against the United States of grave character. It was explained however, that not enough was known of the matter officially to hazard a presumption regarding the form any representations which might be made would take.

HAY IN FAVOR OF ARMY INCREASE PLANS

HOUSE MILITARY AFFAIRS COMMITTEE CHAIRMAN TALKS WITH WILSON

Mobilization of Full Strength of Administration Forces in Support of National Defense Program is Apparently Assured.

Washington, Oct. 25.—Mobilization of the full strength of administration forces in support of the national defense program apparently was assured today when Representative Hay of Virginia, chairman of the house military affairs committee, after a conference with President Wilson, announced himself in favor of the army increae plans.

Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the senate military committee, already has approved the proposal to build up a regular and continental army of more than a million men in six years. Formal publication of the plans in detail will follow Senator Chamberlain's conference with the president next week. The navy $500,000,000 five year building program already has been approved by both house and senate leaders.

The importance attached to Representative Hay's announcement was indicated by the fact that soon after it was made Secretary Garrison broke the silence he had maintained as to army plans ever since he received President Wilson's letter, directing him to have prepared a comprehensive review of the nation's military needs and recommendations for strengthening the National Defense. Mr. Garrison issued this statement:

"I am of course, delighted. This will insure the best possible results. With the aid of Mr. Hay's experience and skill in formulating the measure and his powerful advocacy in support thereof success in the house is assured. I understand that Senator Chamberlain of the senate military committee takes a precisely similar attitude so that there will be hearty co-operation and united effort all along the line."

Representative Hay said he believed the necessary army bills to provide for the proposed increase of the regular establishment and organization of the Continental army and the increase of present coast defenses and building up of an adequate reserve of artillery, small arms and ammunition would pass the house without serious opposition.

FRENCH TROOPS JOIN WITH SERBS

Claim to Have Inflicted Severe Defeat on Bulgars at Krivolak

POSITION IS AWKWARD

Further Advance of the Allied Army Would Seriously Endanger Bulgarian Flank

REPULSE RUSSIAN ATTACKS

LONDON, Oct. 25.—While the Austro-German and Bulgarian campaigns in northern and eastern Serbia are being carried out, despite fierce Serbian resistance and the Bulgars who hold the town of Prahovo are separated from the Germans who crossed the Danube near Orzova by only a few miles, in the south things are not going so well for the invaders in the latter region. The French troops have joined with the Serbs and according to French accounts have inflicted a severe defeat on the Bulgarians at Krivolalk, forty miles north of the point where the Saloniki-Nish railway crosses the Serbo-Greek frontier.

Bulgars in Awkward Position.

This success places the Bulgarians who reached Istip, Veles and Uskup in rather awkward position for a further advance of the allied army army would seriously endanger their flank. In fact, unofficial reports state that the advance of the French who are being closely followed by the British, has already caused the retirement of the Bulgars toward Strumitsa.

The first desire of the Germans, however, is to open a route through Serbia and Bulgaria to Turkey and this is on the eve of being accomplished.

Have Many Defensive Positions.

On the other hand military writers here do not believe that the position of Serbia is so desperate as has been painted. It is serious of course but they point out that the Serbians have many natural defensive positions in the mountains, in which they can hold out for weeks; that, with the British, French and other members of the quadruple powers rushing reinforcements to Saloniki and other points the Bulgars will have an extremely warm reception and that the Germans and Turks being fully occupied elsewhere will not be able to send them much help. British correspondents in France have disclosed the fact made known to them by the British staff that even after the Anglo-French offensive in September the Germans had the greatest difficultly in procuring new reinforcements to meet that adventure. From this it is argued the Germans cannot spare a great many men for the Balkans, especially as the Russians are keeping them busy from the Baltic to the Roumanian border. The Italians by their offensive here compelled the Austrians to strengthen their lines and the French by the capture today of a strongly fortied salient north of Le Mesnil, in Champaigne, have shown that they have not yet ended their effort to break through.

The French advance is considered important because the capture of this fortiefid area clears the ground for another general offensive in Champagne.

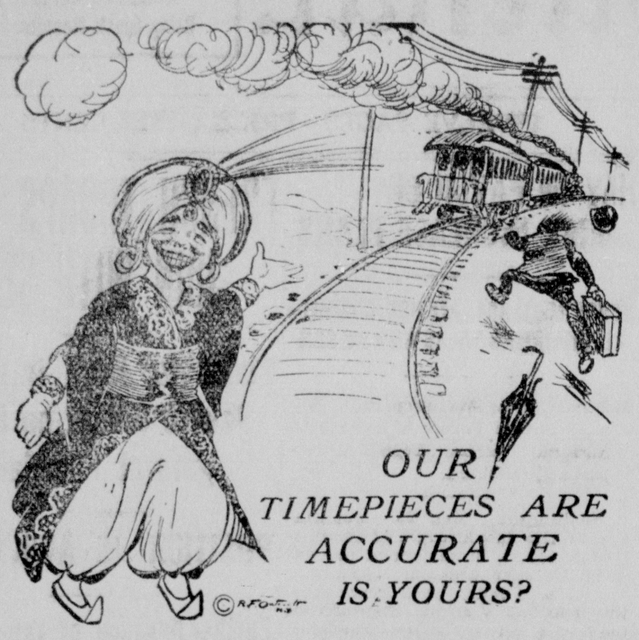

Repulse Russian Attacks.

For the same reason, the British are trying to force the Germans out south of LaBasse. These however, are only preparatory operations, while the Italians are in the midst of a great offensive which has already gained for them many valuable vantage points, and according to Rome despatches, may any day place them in possession of the fortress of Gorliza. The Russians are fighting in the Riga and Dvinsk regions in an effort to retake the ground won from them by Field Marshal Von Hindenburg last week. The Russians attacks southeast of Riga have been repulsed, according to the Germans as were those undertaken northwest of Dvinsk. The German forces however, that housed the Illoukst, north of the town of that name withdrew in the face of a superior Russian army.

Break Through Russ Lines.

It is also claimed by the Germans that Russian attacks in the lake district south of Dvinsk were repulsed and that the Austrians have broken through the Russian lines west of Komanow.

The German campaign in Courland is being interfered with by British and Russian submarines, which have stopped mercantile to the Baltic ports and one of which sunk the Prinz Adalbert, the sixth armored cruiser lost by Germany since the commencement of the war, the others being the Bluecher, Scharahort, Gneisenau, Yorck and Friedrich Karl.

The Government's Strong Arm.

A happening in Dixon, Ill., has called attention to a phase of the good roads question which is sometimes overlooked. Along one of the rural routes leading out from that town was a bad stretch of road which some farmers found quite profitable as there were frequenut requests for teams to pull out mired automobiles. The complaints were quite numerous, and when the rural carrier made known the facts to the postoffice department it was not long until a notice came from Washington that unless the road was put in good pasable condition that the rural mail service would be discontinued. The order was quite drastic, but just as effective, and the government thus holds the whip hand on the good roads movement. If the rule were even more strictly enforced only the public would be benefited.

Bright Republican Prospect.

That the Republican party of the country is now an active, militant and confident organization is the word that is brought back to Washington by Secretary James B. Reynolds, of the Republican national committee, who for the past two months has been making a tour of the west, the northwest and the middle west. Upon this trip he has been in personal touch with political leaders and conditions in twenty-one different states, and has had opportunity to gauge the political sentiment of these sections of the country. "The Republican party," said Mr. Reynolds on his return to Washington, "is getting into splendid condition for the contest of next year. The reunion of those who separated in 1912 has already taken place, and the voters who followed the Republican banner in that year and those who enlisted under the progressive flag are now working shoulder to shoulder in the same cause, that of ending the present political reign in the nation. In all of the states that I visited there was the same effective activity going on, and the same confidence of success in 1916."

Writing to Fill Space.

The big city papers quite frequently poke fun at the country press because of provincial sayings and usually the jokes are well founded. But certainly the city papers quite often devote considerable space to "news matter" which the country papers would think litle short of silly. A Chicago paper yesterday had a three-column half tone of good looking young lady of twenty years, with a statement below that this young lady desired a home with a very wealthy family. The half column story which accompanied the portrait was based upon a four-line advertisement which appeared elsewhere in the paper.

Both the story and the advertisement stated that the young lady had been reared by wealthy parents who were now dead, and because she was lonesome and worked along with people much older than herself, that she had decided that she would be more happily situated if she had a home with somebody exceedingly wealthy. Furthermore, the young lady declared that she must have references.

In this day when we place great value upon money, it is safe to say that a vast majority of young women of twenty years—and older, for that matter—believe that they would be happy if surrounded by great wealth. But they would hardly expect to acquire such position by advertising for it, and if they did, would not expect a metropolitan paper to seize upon the advertisement as the basis for a sentimental half-column story.

Senator Borah Suggests New Problem

Senator Borah, who is ranked as one of the Republican presidential possibilities, in a recent interview declared that he considered the country's preparedness for peac ae greater problem than preparedness for war. The senator went on to explain that he meant business of economic conditions which will follow when war comes to a close. When the war began there were in America three million of unemployed men, and a great percentage of them were put to work because of orders for war munitions.

When peace is declared there will come a cessation of business along this line, and Senator Borah sees that unless there are some changes in existing laws, that the same business condition which preceded the war will be likely to return. So he points out truly that a great problem exists for congress in making such tariff provisions that business can get back to the proper normal basis after the temporary prosperity founded upon war orders.

Another point which the senator emphasized and which will meet with general approval is that in making provision for revenues to pay expenses incurred by the preparedness program, due recognition should be given the fact that manufacturers of munitions have made immense sums because of the war, and any taxing measures should be so framed that they will be called upon to pay a larger percentage of the taxes than those lines of business which received no benefit. Thus with problems of preparedness both for war and for peace, the law makers of the country face a serious situation.

COPY NEW YORK ROCKET ALMANAC FOR YEAR 1774

Valued Souvenir of Olden Times in Possession of Miss Lucy Sturtevant.

Miss Lucy Sturtevant, formerly of this city and now of Kushla, Ala., is a guest at the pleasant home of Mrs. James I. Barrows, 711 West College street and has with her a small box with almost priceless contents. Among the treasures are cuff buttons, coat and dress buttons, two pairs of ponderous, iron bow spectacles, some pieces of continental currency and other articles, among the latter a copy of the New York Almanack for the year 1774 being the second after leap year and the 14th year of his majesty's reign after the 25th of October, 1773, calculated for the use of the province of New York and the neighboring provinces, by Thomas Moore, Philo., printed and sold by Hugh Gaine, Hanover Square, New York

Under the head of "Vulgar notes for the year 1774" the publisher gives the following:

Golden Number, 8.
Epact, 17.
Cycle of the Sun, 19.
Dominical Letter, S.
Shrove Tuesday, 15.
Easter Sunday, April 3d.
Ascension Day, May 12.
Whit Sunday, May 22.

The thrifty publisher inserts his card at the bottom of a page:

"Blank books of most sorts; paper, quills, wax, wafers, inkpots and every other article in the stationery way to be sold by H. Gaine."

A table of tides is useful as well as the times and places of Quaker general meetings, the sittings of the sittings of the courts in the various privinces. There is a long list of governors, beginning with 1664 the first named being Nicholls and the last Tryon. Among other things is a list of field officers in his majesty's service and where located and it is interesting to note there are but 13 each. General Gage was commander in chief, Frederick Haldman was major general on the staff, Guy Carleton was brigadier general, and then followed a list of other officials. The list of the governments of the various provinces takes several pages. A list is given of the packers appointed by act of the general assembly of New York and for each barrel of beef or pork weigaed and branded the official was entitled to 1 shilling 3 pence exclusive of hoops and salt. There is a list of ten colleges and seminaries in America; a list of rates of stages from New York to Philadelphia; the fare was 20 shillings and the trips were made twice a week.

A genealogical list of the royal family gives the (in)famous George III as king with eight children born between Sept. 8, 1761, and June 5, 1771. Many tables, lists of roads from prominent places to smaller ones, times at which "wagons, carrying passengers" set out; lists of the governors of the various provinces and many other interesting facts are crowded into the little volume.

AUTO MIRED FOR LONG TIME.

Ed Spink and family had an unpleasant experience Sunday afternoon soon after they had started on an automobile trip to Chandlerville. Just as they rounded a curve in the road about a quarter of a mile northwest ofr C. S. Black's home, in an effort to avoid a collision with another car Mr. Spink drove his auto into a muddy ditch. Another car was hitched on and in the effort to drig out the Spink car pulled it deper into the mud. Two cars were hitched on without any good results and finally a team of mules was secured and the car was extricated.

The Chandlerville trip had to be abandoned as the party was delayed for more than three hours. It's worth relating that during all that troubled period Mr. Spink preserved a smiling mien and answered at least a hundred questioners cheerfully.

JOHN ECCLES LONGERY DIES AT HOME IN IRELAND

Was Father of Pastor of Pisgah Presbyterian Church—Hymn Used in Great Revival.

Mrs. W. J. Rainey, wife of the pastor of Pisgah Presbyterian church, has received word of the death of her father, John Eccles Loughery, Moneymore, Ireland. Death was due to heart disease after a brief illness.

Until within a few years he was engaged in a store containing general merchandise in his native town. He was converted during great revival of 1859 and was a faithful member of the First Presbyterian church of Moneymore. He is survived by his wife, little son and daughter, Mrs. Rainey

The following hymn was used with blessed results during the great revival mentioned and was a great favorite with him.

"What's the News?"

Where'er we meet you always say
"What's the news?" "What's the news?"
Pray whats the order of the day?
"What's the news?" "What's the news?"
I have got good news to tell,
My Savior hath done all things well,
And triumphed over death and hell;
That's the news; that's the news.

The Lamb was slain on Calvary.
That's the news; that's the news;
To set a world of sinners free,
That's the news; that's the news.
'Twas there His precious blood was shed;
Twas there He bowed His sacred head,
But now He's risen from the dead.
That's the news; that's the news.

To heaven above the conqueror's gone
That's the news; that's the news;
He passed triumphant to His throne.
That's the news; that's the news;
He passed triumphant to His throne.
That's the news; that's the news;
And on His throne He will remain.
Until as Judge He comes again
Attended by a dazzling train;
That's the news; that's the news.

His work's reviving all around;
That's the news; that's the news;
And many have salvation found;
That's the news; that's the news;

The Lord has pardoned all my sin;
That's the news; that's the news;
I feel the witness now within;
That's the news; that's the news;
And since He took my sins away
And taught me how to watch and pray
I'm happy now from day to day;
That's the news; that's the news.

And Christ, the Lord can save you too;
That's the news; that's the news;
Your sinful heart He can renew;
That's the news; that's the news;
This moment if for sins you grieve;
This moment if you do believe,
A full acquittal you'll receive;

And then if any one should say
What's the news? What's the news?
O tell them you've begun to pray;
That's the news; that's the news;
That you have joined the conquering band
And now with joy at God's command
You're marching to the better land
That's the news; that's the news.

BURGLARY AT MURRAYVILLE.

Home of J. P. Moore Entered by Thieves During Night.

Saturday night while the family of J. P. More of Murrayville were at meeting sneak thieves entered the house and made a general search for hidden treasure but failed to secure much. The scamps found $2.50 belonging to the children who had placed it in a sewing machine drawer and canned fruit and jelly were taken from the cellar. The beds were turned open and the house generally ransacked but nothing else was taken.

Bloodhounds were brought from Patterson Sunday but as the family of Mr. Moore had gone so much over the place rearranging things the dogs were unable to trace anyone.

College Students Annual Picnic at Fairview.

Monday the annual picnic of the students and faculty of Illinois Woman's college took place successfully at Fairview, the beautiful home of Dr .and Mrs. T. J. Pitner. The event had not been held for two years. The inclement weather caused its postponment, while in 1913 the illness of Mrs. Pitner prevented the picnic.

Monday was an ideal day for the gathering. Students and faculty to the number of 250 were present in addition to the families of a number of ministers of those who had been invited to the festivities.

The guests reached the Pitner home just before noon and had with them plenty of good things to eat which had been prepared in the college kitchen. A cafeteria luncheon was served on the grounds. The menu was an ex'ellent one and was thoroughly enjoyed.

The afternoon was spent in a general good time. Leaves were raked into the driveways and bonfires started and marshmallow toast was had. The outing ended about 5 o'clock and the guests departed with many words of thanks to Dr. and Mrs. Pitner for their generosity. The annual picnic for 1915 was one of the most enjoyable ever held and will live long in the memories of those who were present.

PEORIA WOMAN TELLS EXPERIENCE

Mrs. W. L. McClellan, of Peoria, suffered torture from indigestion, gas, belching and other symptoms of stomach trouble. She spent large sums of money for doctors' advice and medicine. Still her condition did not improve. She found relief, wonderful surprising relief in a drug store window. This is her story, as she tells it:

"I suffered so from distention and colicky pains that at times I was completely incapacitated for my household work. I saw a window display of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and decided to purchase a bottle, which I did. I have taken only one bottle and the results have been really wonderful. I have not had a pain in my stomach since, and let me say that for the first time in many, many months, two days following I have had a natural movement of the bowels. I feel I cannot say enough for the remarkable virtues of your remedy."

Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your druggist now and try it on an absolute guarantee—if not satisfactory money will be returned.

COUNCIL WILL HAVE STRICTER RULES ABOUT LAYING PIPES

Will Require Profiles so That Maps May Be Kept Correct—Pavement Oiling Will Continue This Season.

In the absence of Mayor Rodgers at the council session Monday morning Commissioner Widmayer presided. The roll call showed Commissioner Martin also absent. Following the usual routine business Mr. Cox reported grading work still in progress on unpaved streets, and Mr. Vasconcellos stated that the work of cleaning and repairing the storage reservoir had been completed and the reservoir has again been filled.

Mr. Cox brought to attention again the matter of oiling the paved streets and said that in his judgment the better plan would be to suspend the oiling for the remainder of this season. He mentioned again complaints he had received on account of automobiles skidding and horses slipping but said that he would not wish the council to take any action in the matter unless it seemed the wise thing to do. Mr. Widmayer said that the season was so near closed and as a number of property owners had paid in advance for the work, that it seemed to him the best thing to do would be to permit Mr. Cocking to complete his contract and then later on let property owners themselves decide what they wanted to do next year.

Mr. Vasconcellos was practically of the same opinion, and Mr. Cocking, who was present, explained that only one more application of oil would be necessary this season. He said further that in the beginning he had used too much oil for the work and that the pavements had been too slippery and slick in some instances. When he first began he opened all the nozzles of the oiling machine, and by the plan now followed, less than half that number are opened and the oil sprayed. Without any formal action it was agreed that at present the contract shall be carried out and the question of oiling for next year be put to the property owners.

W. B. Miser said that property owners on Edgmon street had asked for a gas main on that street and that in accordance with the provisions of the state law he told them the main would be laid. The law makes it obligatory for a utility company to lay a main when one customer for every hundred feet of construction is guaranteed, and there are four customers on the street mentioned for four hundred feet of main. Mr. Cox said that he had objected to the pipe being laid without formal consent of the council, because the company had laid a pipe on North Prairie street and in refilling the ditch, had not tamped the earth properly. He said the same condition existed on a portion of South Main street, where a main had been laid in the boulevard. The requirement is that the ditch made shall be refilled and tamped and sod placed upon the surface. Mr. Miser said the intention of the company was to meet all these requirements and he would see to it that this was done in the future.

City Attorney Reeve was present, and asked for his opinion said the best plan would be to require the company to file a profile with each applicant for authority to lay a new main. In this way the city records would be kept in such condition that it can be told at any time on just what streets there are mains and various connections. The city attorney said that if this plan had been followed in the past in regard to water, gas and sewer pipes, that the city records would be in better shape. either an ordinance or resolution covering the matter was deemed necessary and Mr. Miser said that it would be satisfactory to the company to follow this method of procedure and that he would have the necessary profile made.

The ordinance making it an offense for junk dealers to purchase brass, copper, etc. from minors without knowledge of their parents was given a second reading and adopted. The council then adjourned.

HAD GENERAL MELEE.

The police received a call to the residence of Isaac Postley on North Sandy street Sunday afternoon where it was reported that a small sized riot was in progress. When the police arrived the battle that had been going on had stopped. However, Martha Turner, a daughter of Postley, was whipping a woman named Carter. The officers placed the Turner woman under arrest. Her father and brother Ben Postley interferred with the officers. For a time things were quite lively. Some woman who is said to be a little bit unbalanced caved in the front of Policeman Baker's helmet. Ben Postley got out in the alley and started to throwing "alley apples" as George Murphy designates brickbats. He made the officers step around pretty lively for a while until he was finally captured. Monday the belligerents appeared before Justice Coons. Isaac Postley was assessed $100 and costs, Ben Postley was given $10 and costs and Martha Turner was assessed $5 and costs.

OILED ROAD TO CEMETERIES.

The work of oiling Lincoln avenue from Michigan avenue to Diamond Grove cemetery will be undertaken very soon by W. H. Cocking. The fund which makes this work possible was secured through the activity of Mayor Rodgers and John A. Vasconcellos. Some time ago authorities of Jacksonville state hospital made Michigan avenue from Diamond street to Lincoln avenue a cinder roadway, and by oiling Lincoln avenue from Michigan to the entrance to Diamond Grove cemetery, a good roadway to both Calvary cemetery and Diamond Grove is assured for the winter season.

Mrs. Wm. G. Russel of Woodson was among the shoppers in the city yesterday.

Notes On Live Farm Themes

Austin King, whose farm is a few miles northeast of Jacksonville, has devoted some attention to cattle feeding for a number of years. He said yesterday that his system had changed quite materially as years passed by, because the conditions varied. and further said that the livestock market viewed through a period of years has a kaleidoscope aspect, with changes constantly. Some years ago he used to devote his attention to fat cattle but now he finds it more satisfactory to handle butcher stock. This year he has twenty-five cows and about the same number of yearlings, and it is his intention to feed them through the winter and possibly put them on the market in the spring.

Three years ago he erected a silo and has found silage a great aid in feeding in an economical way. He uses silage and feeds clover hay or oat straw with it. The crop of clover has been so uncertain for several years that he has formed the habit of using oat straw to supplement the silage, but this year will have some clover. For the sale of butcher stock Mr. King has found the St. Louis market the most satisfactory. For fat cattle he used to ship to the Chicago market with the best results.

Mr. King said that it is not unusual for cattle prices to be somewhat depressed at this season of the year because of the great number of grass fed cattle which reach the market. It has sometimes happened that butcher stock has sold exceedingly well just about Thanksgiving time and then has often come a lower market. Corn has matured so rapidly in the neighborhood in which Mr. King lives that it is the expectation that shucking will be possible by Nov. 1.

From time to time the question of securing a farm adviser for Morgan county has had attention, but nothing definite has as yet been done. If an adviser is secured for this county to serve in 1916 it is imperative that some action be speedily taken. The Morgan County Farmers' Club has not met for several months because farmers have been too busy to attend sessions. The busy time will soon be over and the club meetings will be resumed. Certainly a movement should be started by this club or through some other agency for securing an adviser here. In counties where farm advisers have worked during the last few years the results in every instance have proven the benefit of the movement. A farm adviser's services would be equally free to every farm owner and tenant in the county. The adviser would answer requests for information in any department of farming and would in answer to calls visit any particular farm in order to give advice upon any puzzling question.

The farm adviser would never give advice unless asked, and the systems and methods he believes best to follow would in no way be pushed upon the farmers. In other words, whatever fund of information a farm adviser has is available for those farmers who want the opinions and advice of those who have made a definite study of agricultural problems.

It is estimated that the yearly expense for maintaining a farm adviser's office is about $5,000. This contemplates a salary of $2,500 to $3,000 for the adviser. His equipment must include an automobile, and then there would be office expenses, which would bring the total somewhere about $5,000, although the expense might be held below this sum. If a farm adviser were secured, then government aid to the extent of $1200 or $1400 a year could be secured.

The best plan would be for the Farmers' Club or some committee to take the initiative in the matter and to circulate a petition for the signature of farmers asking them to pledge certain amounts for the payment of an adviser. Such a pledge would probably be based upon the acreage owned. Then, no doubt, there are some farmers who would gladly make special pledges the first year in order to have the work inaugurated, feeling certain that the yearly expense afterward could easily be met when the farmers as a whole came to understand what the farm adviser's work really is.

A. B. McKinney of the Lynnville neighborhood, who was quoted in the Journal recently as saying that he always wanted to have his wheat planted by No. 25, said yesterday that a lot of his friends were making sport about the statement. As a matter of fact, Mr. McKinney said wheat should be planted by Oct. 25. He finished planting the latter part of last week, so he is safely inside the limits this year.

It's an old theme, but too much cannot be said about it, and that is, Morgan county road conditions. There are some roads in the county now in excellent condition and there are others which show positively that they have not been dragged for many weeks and now are exceedingly rough. Before winter weather sets in road officers should make it a matter of first importance to see that the roads are dragged down into passable condition. The results of oiling have also been so satisfactory that more roads should be oiled this fall. The movement for oiling the Springfield road to the county line is progressing satisfactorily, and Thomas Stevenson who has been circulating the subscription paper, reports a great deal of interest in the project and liberal subscriptions.

The proper grading of roads should be done before oiling, otherwise the best results will not follow. Just as in the past, there are some highway commissioners who do not seem to have caught the spirit of what dragging really means for the roads, and have preferred to spend their money in other ways not nearly as beneficial to the public.

The time will come, too, when the people of Jacksonville will realize how much good roads mean to them in a business way and will appreciate the fact that they are really more interested in the condition of the highways leading into Jacksonville than are the people outside the city limits. For this reason it would be a desirable thing if the county board would put Jacksonville into a road district along with the territory adjoining the city. Then without excessive taxation a fund would be available for road improvement which would make it possible to put every road leading into Jacksonville into good condition all the year around.

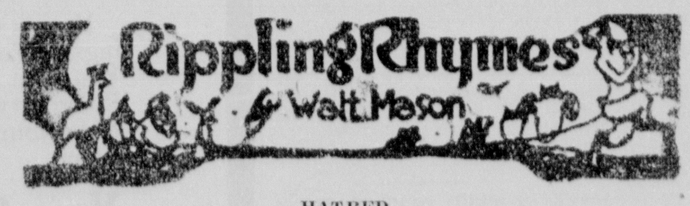

People who have used the new hard road stretching east from the corner of Morton avenue to the city limits have been impressed how much the hard road movement means to the state. There should be no lessening of interest in the hard road movement, and each year the mileage should be added to. It is recognized that along with the hard road construction there should be something for present benefit, and the oiled road is solving this problem. Sangamon county, Cass county and others nearby are moving forward with hard roads more rapidly than Morgan, and if this county is not to fall behind from its proper ranking, it is necessary to make the agitation for hard roads, oiled roads and dragged roads a continuous campaign.

An Illinois correspondent writes to Wallace's Farmer as follows:

"I would like to know how much tankage to feed to fall pigs about nine or ten weeks old. How much corn or other feed should be given in connection in order to make a balanced ration?"

Fall pigs will ordinarily balance up their own ration satisfactorily, if the corn is given in one self-feeder and the tankage in another. To begin with, they will probable eat about seven parts of shelled corn to one part of tankage, but as they grow older, their appetite for the tankage gradually becomes less. As they near 200 pounds in weight, the proportion will probably be about fifteen parts of corn to one of tankage, and when they get over 200 pounds, they may be eating only one part of tankage to twenty parts of corn. As to the amount of corn and tankage to feed, we do not care to give any definite suggestions. As a general rule, it is best to give growing pigs about all they will clean up. If, however, our correspondent wishes to carry these pigs along slowly, and finish on grass during the summer he might give them a very limited ration. At all times he should be governed by the appetites and the condition of the pigs, together with the time at which he intends to market them.

Mr. and Mrs. James Guninane, Miss Sadie Lynch of Chapin were visitors in the city yesterday.

HATRED.

I hate a lot of men, I wist; I'd camp upon their frames, but when I try to make a list. I can't recall their names. I should resent the evil flings from this or that old scout, but there are far more pleasant things that I can think about. Old Weatherwax has done me ill, here in my native town, and every day he tries to kill my twenty-cent renown; I've heard the evil things he's said, and yet I don't repine; and if I tried to punch his head he'd surely land on mine. Vain is the effort to defend one's fame from such attacks; I'd rather gossip with a friend than scrap with Weatherwax. I do not care what people say, words leave no smarts or stings; and every passing, sunny day is full of pleasant things. Why should I miss the sights of birds, as to the South they go, to stand around and bandy words with some long-winded foe? Why should I harbor thoughts of hate, when there are authors near, with healthy stories to relate, and nomes that soothe and cheer Why should I hold a vengeful mind, when it is best to laugh, when I can sit around and grind chunes from my phonograph

A DREADFUL DEATH.

At Shipman Sunday evening Freeman Swett was filling the tank of his automobile with gasoline the oil lamps on the sides being lighted. Some boys scuffling in the road attracted his attention and he let the oil run over when it was ignited by the lamps and a terrible explosion followed and young Swett was burned to a crisp. He was but nineteen years of age and had recently married Miss Myrna Miller, of Alton. He was the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Swett, who have a general store in Shipman.

Every Woman Should Know

There are three entirely different kinds of baking powder, namely:

(1) Cream of tartar, derived from grapes;
(2) Alum, a mineral acid; and
(3) Phosphate of Lime.

(1) Baking Powders made of Cream of Tartar add to the food the same healthful qualities that exist in the ripe grapes from which Cream of Tartar is derived.

(2) Baking Powders made of Alum add to the food some form of Alum or Aluminum, a heavy metal, wholly foreign to any natural article of food.

(3) Phosphate of Lime is made from rock or by burning bones which by chemical action are changed into a white, powdered acid. It is used in baking powder only because it is a cheaper substitute.

A Cream of Tartar powder never contains Alum or Phosphate.

Every housekeeper should read the names of the ingredients printed on the label and know what she is using.

SIMPLE REMEDY FOR CATARRH

Just Breathe Hyomei Four Times a Day and Be Relieved.

If a few years ago some one had said you could treat catarrh by breathing air charged with a healing balsam, the idea would have been ridiculous and it remained for that eminent investigator, R. T. Booth, to discover in Hyomei this wonderful method of treatment.

Hyomei has performed almost miraculous results in treating catarrh and is today recognized by thousands of people as the only advertised remedy for catarrh that can be relied upon to do just what it claims. The complete outfit of Hyomei is inexpensive and consists of an inhaler, a medicine dropper and a bottle of Hyomei.

Breathe the air of Hyomei through the little inhaler druggists furnish with it for a few minutes four times a day and it will help the worst case of catarrh. It soothess and heals the mucous membrane of the air passages, prevents irritation, and effects complete and lasting relief.

In Jacksonville there are scores of well known people who have been relieved of catarrh by Hyomei. If it does not help you Coover & Shreve will return the money you paid for Hyomei. This is the strongest evidence that can be offered as to their faith in this remedy.—Adv.

"CASCARETS" BEST IF HEADACHY, BILIOUS, SICK, CONSTIPATED

Best For Liver and Bowels, Bad Breath, Bad Colds, Sour Stomach.

Get a 10-cent box.

Sick headache, biliousness, coated tongue, head and nose clogged up with a cold—always trace this to torpid liver; delayed, fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach.

Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is re-absorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested food and foul gasses, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months.

STUBBORN ECZEMA HEALED BY AMOLOX

We are daily receiving letters of praise from people who have been cured by Amolox. Many of them tell how, for years, they have tried different remedies and doctors in the vain effort to find relief. Some become discouraged and lose all hope of ever being cured. E. R. Frisbee, 187 Sycamore St., Mansfield, Ohio, writes: "Our baby's face was covered with eczema scales, sores and scabs. She was a pitiable sight. We tried everything. Took her to Pittsburg doctors but were unable to find any relief until we used Amolox. It cured her within a short time".

Amolox ointment will quickly heal pimples on the fact, red nose, and minor skin troubles. Chronic cases of dry or moist scaly eczema require both the ointment and liquid to effect a cure. At all drug stores. Trial size, 50c. Recommended and guaranteed by Coover & Shreve.—Advertisement.

GIRLS! DRAW A MOIST CLOTH THROUGH HAIR, DOUBLE ITS BEAUTY

Try This! Hair Gets Thick, Glossy, Wavy and Beautiful at Once.

Immediate?—Yes! Certain?—that's the joy of it. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a Danderine hair cleanse. Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair or dust, dirt or excessisve oil, and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. A delightful surprise awaits those whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few week's use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If your care for pretty, soft hair, and lots of it surely get a 25c bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and just try it.—Advertisement.

A WOMAN DOCTOR

says, "Eugenics is a necessary factor in the future of the race. The average American girl is unfit for motherhood". This may be true, but if weak and ailing girls passing from girlhood to womanhood would only rely, as thousands do, upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—that simple remedy made from roots and herbs—to restore the system to a normal healthy condition, it would cause many ills from which they suffer to disappear, so that motherhood might become the joy of their lives.—Advertisement.

EAGLES LOSE FAST GAME TO MERRITT

SCOTT COUNTY TEAM TAKES GAME 3 TO 1.

Pitcher Smithson Proved Stumbling Block to Locals and Allows But Two Hits—Contest An Exciting One.

With the aid of some fine aviation stuff the Eagles were enabled to hand the Merritt team a game at Nichols park Sunday afternoon by a score of 3 to 1. While on the face of perfect playing the visitors would have carried home the bacon by a score of 1 to 0 yet perfect playing does not always win a ball game. The element of luck is largely mixed up in every contest. However, the main stumbling block in the path of the Eagles Sunday was one Smithson. Smithson grew up in the hickories down in Scott county and they grow them big in that locality. He neaves from the port side. He had the Eagles batters listing badly throughout the nine rounds. Two lonely singles was all the hits he allowed. In addition to this he struck out only nineteen men. He was a bit unsteady and walked three men, made two wild pitches and hit a batter. But when it was necessary he tightened up and struck out batters with men on bases. This is demonstrated from the fact that the Eagles had seven men stranded on the paths when a hit would have brought home a run.

Charlie White pitched a fair game for the Eagles. He struck out fourteen men and walked two. He tossed his own game away by walking a man at a critical time and making a wild peg to first that cost a run. The catching of the two Clarks and the first base play of McCollister were about the only fielding features worthy of mention. Williams in left field made a couple of circus catches after misjudging the ball in both instances. Williams rolled around the field like a British trawler after being torpedoed by a German submarine. Some of the spectators suggested that he be given a mask for fear he would accidentally swallow the ball. However, he escaped without serious injury.

How the Runs Were Made.

Jacksonville was the first to break the ice and made her only run in the third inning. After McCollister had struck out Arisman was safe when Murray dropped his line drive. He stole second while White was striking out and scored on Denny's double. Three times afterward the Eagles got a men around to the last station but the hit was not forthcoming to bring him to the registering point.

Merritt bunched three hits in her half of the second but White tightened up and struck out two men with the bases loaded. Merritt tied the score in the fifth. Brackett was safe on DeFrates' error. White walked E. Clark. Brackett and E. Clark worked a double steal. Smithson singled past Denny and Brackett counted.

Merritt upset the soup in the seventh with first class aid from the Eagles. After Mathews had gone out Arisman to McCollister, Brackett beat out a hit to short stop. E. Clark poled one a mile to center field and Brackett scored. Smithson flied to Woodman, Rigor hit to White who fumbled and then made a wild peg to McCollister and E. Clark scored. Rigor took second on the error but was picked off of second, White to Arisman. The score:

SENATOR'S WIFE HAS HARD HUNT FOR ALIMONY

Concord, N. H., Oct. 23.—The suit for separation brought by Mrs. Grace B. Hollis against U. S. Senator Henry F. Hollis has brought out the fact that the senator is in Newfoundland and has arranged to be away from home for a year. Mrs. Hollis is seeking alimony, and her attorneys are making inquiry into the senator's affairs. It developed in their inquiry that Senator Hollis sold his law business to his partners, and has appointed a trustee for his son and daughter. He had arranged to have his salary deposited in a certain bank to the credit of the trustee for his children.

Senator Hollis was in Boston in July, and since then none of his New Hampshire friends have seen him. When the suit for legal separation was filed by his wife, his disappearance was commented upon. It developed that he is recovering his health and is in Newfoundland, but his exact residence there is still a mystery.

The senator was married in 1893, when he began law practice in this city. His wife's maiden name was Grace Bruerton Fisher. The suit for separation created a sensation, and it disclosed the rift in the family happiness.

NOTED SURGEONS AT CLINICAL CONGRESS

Boston, Oct. 23.—Fifteen hundred surgeons from all over the United States are gathering here for the sixth annual convention of the Clinical Congress of Surgeons of North America, which will open on Monday with demonstrations at all of the big hospitals in this city.

The officials of the congress are headed by Dr. John B. Murphy, of Chicago, president, and Dr. Charles H. Mayo, of Rochester, Minn., president-elect. On Monday evening, Dr. Mayo will deliver the annual address and will be inducted into office.

The congress was formed in Chicago, and has also held clinics in New York, Philadelphia and last year in London. This year the invitations are limited to the number of seats at the clinics. Mornings will be devoted to the clinics by local surgeons at hospitals and medical schools. The visitors will have the program each evening, delivering papers on many phases of surgery and the newer methods and results.

HAVE STOPPED DEPRADATIONS.

For some time a number of boys have been stealing milk and eatables from ice boxes in the west end of the city. The same crowd also have been taking pocketboks and other articles from automobiles standing in the streets. Sunday one of them secured a purse from a car standing in front of Central Christian church. Chief Davis located the young man who gave up the purse which contained several dollars. The boys were given a good talking to by the chief and promised to be good in the future. The chief is of the opinion that west end residents will not be bothered with these boys any more.

RETURNED TO CHICAGO.

Hon. H. DeP. Soares, the Portuguese vice consul and acting consul of the Portuguese republic at Chicago expected to leave on an early train this morning for the great city. During his stay in the city he saw a great many of his nationality and their descendants and a number of other citizens and he was treated with the consideration his exalted station demands. He expressed himself before leaving as greatly pleased with his visit to the city and was glad to meet so many sons and daughters and grandchildren of his native land. He proved himself to be a very affable gentleman, well cultivated and one whom it was a pleasure to meet and he will be gladly welcomed should he return.

IMPROVED EXPORT BUSINESS BRINGS ADVANCE IN WHEAT

Unsettled Weather in Canada Aids Rise—Strength of Wheat Sends Corn Upward.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—Wheat made a rapid advance in value today owing to unsettled weather in Canada, to improved export business and to the fact that the United States visible supply total did not increase as much as expected. The market closed buoyant 2⅞@3c to 3⅜c net higher, with December at $1.01⅛ and May at $1.03⅜@⅛.

Corn finished 1⅛c to 7⅛c up.

Oats with a gain of ⅞c to @1⅞c.

Provisions unchanged to 20c down.

Comparative smallness of the United States visible supply increase was emphasized by an active milling demand here, especially for red winter wheat. In this connection, it was pointed out that the entire stock of all grades of wheat in Chicago had been reduced to less than one-fifth of the total a year ago. December significance was attached also to advices that cash wheat at Winnipeg had gone to a premium as compared with quotations at Duluth.

Corn went upward as a result of the strength of wheat. Fine weather did but little to check the advance. Signs of a good export demand helped to put firmness into oats. On the bulge though country offerings increased.

Provisions sagged owing to lack of aggressive support. The trade virtually ignored an advance in the price of hogs.

ACTIVITY IN SPECIAL STOCKS IS RESUMED ON A LARGE SCALE

Foreign Exchange is Weak—Higher Prices Scored Are Again Limited to the So-Called War Shares.

New York, Oct. 25.—Last week's renewal of activity in special stocks was resumed on a large scale today, regardless of more acute weakness in foreign exchange. Demand sterling fell to $4.61½, a decline of 12 points from the high point to which it recovered a few weeks ago when the Anglo-French loan was in process of consummation.

Most other forms of foreign remittance were lower, including francs and lires, while marks were inclined to yield. Conferences with this end in view were held by international banking interests today and some indefinite adjustment is soon probable. The higher prices scored today were again limited to so called war shares. Among the new records were Maxwell Motors, common, up 1⅝ points to 90½; the second preferred 7½ to 64; National Enameling and Stamping 2 to 36½, and American Linseed 3¾ to 31¾.

United States Steel's course was watched with especial interest because of tomorrow's quarterly meeting of the directors. Steel opened a fraction higher, soon fell over a point and was heaviest at the close losing ⅛ at 85⅜. The best opinion is that no action on the common dividend will be taken.

Eries were the outstanding features of the railways, the common advancing 3⅜ to 39½; the first preferred 1⅜ to 56½, and the second preferred 3¼ to 48¼. These represent the highest quotations in three or four years.

Rails in general and specialties shaded considerably toward the end, some standard issues making moderate net losses. Total sales were 1,150,000 hares.

The Western freight movement now is substantially above last year's and shows gains over 1913. The government cotton ginning report was without effect on southern transportation shares.

FINANCIAL SENSE.

Take Care of What You Earn and Then Invest It Wisely.

The greatest financial genius I ever knew and the richest man I ever knew personally once said to me:

"There is no greater financial genius possible than taking care of what you earn, and there is no better or surer way of taking care of your surplus than to invest it in sound securities paying 5 or 6 per cent. And such securities are easy to find any day of any year. So any man may be a financial genius if he will exercise the simplest common sense."

I protested that it would be said of such a man that he was narrow and selfish.

"Nonsense," the financial genius replied. "I have money invested in railroads, in packing houses and in manufacturing enterprises. Could money be invested more usefully? Yet it is as safe as government bonds and pays a better rate of interest. I invest my own money, but a man without financial experience may secure safe investments without difficulty. If a man has a bank account his banker will find safe investments for him. Bankers are men of financial experience, and 99 per cent of them are intelligent and honorable. There is no excuse for a busy man losing his savings. Many women, when they come into possession of money, lose it because they invest it in schemes bankers would not trust, or else the women loan their money to men who could not borrow money at a bank. Everything in life is simple and easy if we would only accept experience and be careful of big and sentimental notions. Financial sense is knowing that certain men will promise to do certain things and fail. Therefore when you invest your savings get security. And it is no more trouble to get good security than it is to get bad if you are guided by common sense and experience."—American Magazine.

Fat Crystals.

If small quantities of butter, lard and beef fat be separately boiled and slowly cooled for, say, twenty-four hours, the resulting crystals will show very marked differences under the microscope. The normal butter crystal is large and globular. It polarizes brilliantly and shows a well marked St. Andrew's cross. That of lard shows a stellar form, while that of beef fat has a foliated appearance. In course of time, as the butter loses its freshness, the globular crystal degenerates and gradually merges into peculiar rosette-like forms.

Instinct of the Mudfish.

The remarkable instinct which causes the mudfish to roll himself in a ball of mud when the dry season approaches is a wonderful provision of nature, intended solely, it would seem, to prevent the extinction of the species. The most interesting fact about this fish is that it breathes by means of its gills when in its native element and by means of lungs during its voluntary imprisonment in the mud cocoon.

TENDENCIES IN JOURNALISM ARE SET FORTH IN NEW BOOK

Many Changes Apparent in Last Decade, Says Merle Thorpe in "The Coming Newspaper".—Other New Works at Library.

"Journalism along with big business, legal and medical practice, education, and even government itself, has not been overlooked in the present day popular sport of social vivisection", says Prof. Merle Thorpe, of the University of Kansas, in "The Coming Newspaper", a volume published in the present year and added Saturday to the Jacksonville public library. Though much criticism is justified, thinks the author, continual carping by the "fireside critics" does unquestioned harm and "arouses in the practical newspaper man a cynicism, or at least an apathy, toward all well-meaning efforts at constructive criticism".

Journalism is more purposeful now than ever before, says Mr. Thorpe. It has assumed greater responsibilities. The making of corrections, the ethics of advertising, the supression of news, are all treated by the author in an understanding way in setting forth the remarkable progress manifest in the last decade. Among noteworthy chapters are "Tainted Journalism, Good and Bad", by Dr. Washington Gladden; "Unto Whomsoever Much is Given", by Melville E. Stone, Associated Press; "A Modern Type of Country Journalism", and a symposium on "Giving the Public What it Wants."

Other books which were placed in circulation Saturday at the library are:

Dramatic Works.

Bernstein—The Thief. "A splendid virile drama which holds the interest from start to finish".—Acton Davies.

Sardou—Patrie. "This is a stirring, dramatic presentation of the Spanish occupation of Belgium when that wonderful country went through just such another invasion at the hands of Spain as is now being accomplished by the Germans."

Practical Books.

Anderson—Electricity on the Farm. Gives details of cost and clear, specific directions for the construction of electrical plants.

Towns—Habits that Handicap. Dr. Richard C. Cabot, whose book, "What Men Live By" has been quite generally read in Jacksonville writes an introduction for this book.

Rent Fiction.

Bacon—Open Market.

Lincoln—Thankful's Inheritance. "A pleasant humorous story in which Thankful acquires, with a home on Cape Cod, a 'Ghost' which interferes with its success as a boarding house, a mortgage, and a miserly old millionaire neighbor who makes all the trouble he can."

Montgomery—Anne of the Island.

Porter—Michael O'Halloran.

APPEAL FOR AMERICAN BIBLE SOCIETY.

The American Bible society has sent out an appeal for assistance. The society has distributed thousands of Bibles to those who could not afford to buy them. This work has been carried on for years and much good has resulted. The official paper of the society, the "Bible Society Record," has an appeal to those who wish to aid the society in its work. W. C. Green is treasurer for the local auxiliary of the society and will gladly receive donations for the work. The appeal as published in part follows:

The American Bible Society is in immediate need of $150,000 in special gifts from churches and individuals if it is not to come to its Centennial next spring with its Reserve Funds exhausted and forced to a calamitous retrenchment of all its work at home and abroad.

Last year its budget was cut 10 per cent, and this year its appropriations were still further reduced by nearly 20 per cent.

This means refusing Scriptures to thousands of people who are hungry for them. Every field of the Society, save Mexico and the Turkish Empire, is calling for advance.

Even with enlarged resources we could not supply the demand in the Far East and South America.

The Board of Managers, therefore, asks one thousand churches or individuals to give $100 each, and for fifty $1,000 subscriptions, before December 31, 1915, if possible.

The Society's issues last year amounted to 6,406,323 volumes, a total far in excess of anything in its history, and giving some idea of the world need for the Scriptures.

Ought not our people, free, in so large measure, from the sorrow and strife consuming the energies of Europe, to strengthen immediately the resources of this Society, which they established nearly a Hundred Years ago, so that it can take up this burden now laid as never before upon it. This is no time for a famine of Bibles or a scant supply.

CRUZAN BARN BURNS.

Total Loss of Building and Contents Monday Morning.

The fire department was called to the residence of G. H. Cruzan on South Diamond street at 1:30 o'clock Monday morning. Fire had originated in a large barn. The building and contents were destroyed. Two horses were burned and all the harness and two buggies were lost. Mr. Cruzan, who is in the nursery business also lost a quantity of fruit trees and some packing and boxes. The origin of the fire is unknown. The great distance of the fire from department headquarters made it impossible for the department to arrive in time to do any good. The loss is estimated at $1,200 with about $500 insurance

Vacation.

Vacation is a humbug, a delusion and a snare. Each year you start out smiling and say "Pooh, pooh!" to dull care. You buy your railroad tickets, and you load yourself with bait, for something tells you that this year the fishing will be great. You live on gnats and horseflies, and you sleep on a hard plank, and all day long you slave and sweat beside a river bank. You catch a lot of chiggers, prickly heat and sunburned skin, and then old Poison Ivy soon dissolves your cheerful grin. You sit up nights to scratch, and to return home is your wish, for you've caught almost everything, but not a doggone fish. Vacation is a humbug, a delusion and a snare, but next year you'll start out again and try your luck elsewhere.

Wuff!

Poor Henpeck's life is one long fight;
His wife sure gabs a heap;
She talks all day, and then at night
She argues in her sleep.

Mean Brute!

"It must be lonely for you since Mrs. Gabb went on her vacation," remarked Mrs. Naybor. "I suppose you miss her a great deal, don't you?"

"Not at all," replied Mr. Gabb. "I keep the phonograph running day and night."

Advice.

My son, you should not use big words;
You'll find this is no joke,
For if you have to swallow them
You're liable to choke.

Dear Luke—So many things I've heard which in your life have oft occurred. One says you're tall, one says you're short, one says your wife writes your report. Another says you're slight and grave, another says you don't behave. I'm puzzled much to know the truth. For my own part I would forsooth be mighty glad to see your face. It's surely nice in any case. But if you pose and give away your photograph each blooming day to all that read you'll cease to be that everylasting mystery.—Dee Dee.

What has become of the old fashioned red and green glass jars with the lights behind them that used to stand in the windows of the old fashioned drug stores?

There are other disappointments in life. But the big disappointment comes when you try to judge a woman by her telephone voice.

RELIGION OF DIVINE LAW, SUBJECT OF CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURE

Jacob S. Shields, Member of Board of Lectureship of Mother Church Heard in Address.

Jacob Shields a lecturer of the Christian Science church was heard in an address Sunday afternoon, in the David Prince auditorium on the subject of "The Religion of Divine Law." He said in part:

There is in all men, individually and collectively, an inherent, instinctive respect for the law, even human law, which at best is faulty. The purpose of our discourse is to present Christian Science to you as based upon divine law, the function through which God's infinite good is operative in the universe and man.

Law is synonymous with truth order, justice, equity. Therefore, to prove that Christian Science is based upon divine law we must prove that it is exact and right; that it pertains to a system perfect in its operation; conforms to a proper standard, and violates no right; gives to every man his due, and above all is universal in its adaptability.

When I first took up the study of Christian Science it seemed impossible that my thought could ever become spiritualized, for I had always been very material. Business and pleasure occupied my entire attention. I was not accustomed to seeking my help through prayer, therefore I could see no prabability of regenerating such a mind. One evening, while thus contemplating the seriousness of my situation, I opened the Bible and verses five and six of the third chapter of Proverbs came to my notice:

"Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding.

"In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy path.

I pondered over these declarations long and earnestly, and fially concluded to do as they directed, that is, acknowledge God in all my ways. Thus, whenever I rode or walked, I declared God as the power which permitted it. I affirmed His wisdom in every transaction and accredited every supply to Him, with gratitude. I did not go to sleep without acknowledging Him to be the giver of all rest and peace; and so, whatever I did, whereever I went, I had God in my thought continually.

To my surprise in a comparatively short time I found this kind of thinking quite natural, desirable and extremely satisfying. I found myself rejecting sin. I was learning to think in a spiritual way, and yet such thinking was practical. I had evidence of this from a better state of health, and good desires which came to me. I felt an unceasing inclination to help others, to forgive my enemies, and to be more kind, just, true and honest. I had a great wish to pray and to heal the sick—all things which I had never known before. I am thankful to say that I have made progress from the very hour when I first determined to have God with me in all my thoughts. Many of my acquaintances have had and are having similar experiences, for truth not only has the quality of being believed, but the faculty of self-proof as well.

Seeking Practical Religion.

Thoughtful men are beginning to realize that religion must be more than a mere belief. They are learning that it cannot be inherited, transferred, or adopted; that it is not the chattel of any paricular organization or church, and that it is not acquired by fasting or feasting. They are asking for a more practical religion; for less dogma and more love; less ritualism and more spirituality; less creed and more works; less scholasticism and more truth.

Humanity wants to know God—the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, the God of the prophets and of Christ Jesus. They want a God whom they may know as a Father, kind merciful, just, true—who, as the psalmist says, "forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases"; a God who hides not Himself from His children, but desires that they should know Him; a God who is a very present help in time of trouble.

The religions of the world have failed to answer the heart's appeal. The searcher for Truth has been made to believe that nothing definite can be known until the portals of human existence close behind him. The man who is hungry and thirsty will seek food and drink where he can find it, and the same is true of him who is hungry and thirsty for spiritual food and drink.

Christian Science is doing much to satisfy this craving by giving men a scientific, demonstrable religion, a religion not so much of preaching as of works. Thousands upon thousands have been touched by this ministry of redemption, healing and regeneration. Every sorrow comforted, every pain relieved, every sin overcome, every misfortune reduced, every prjudice annulled, every disease healed by the power of God proves the efficacy of divine law; makes man more reverent toward God, and more gentle and tolerant toward his fellow man.

Christian Scientists know God not as a magnified personality, but as Mind—the mind which is infinite good, infinite Love, infinite Life, infinite Truth. All that men know that is good, true and worthy is the manifestation or expression of divine Mind. God is the Mind of man, and divine law demands that man shall have no other God, hence no other Mind.

The Mission of Christ Jesus.

Only one man has lived upon this earth who can be referred to as a perfect or ideal thinker—the man Christ Jesus! He understood and demonstrated the omnipotence, omniscience and omnipresence of God and permitted no compromise of this all-inclusive truth to enter his consciousness. God was all-in-all to him. He instructed others to accept God in the same spirit, especially those who were blinded with ceremonial, ritualistic and material worship, but his teaching, works, and mission were greatly misunderstood and remain so, in a large degree, even to this day.

Many honest Christian people believe Jesus to be God, and address much of their prayer and worship to him. Others disbelieve him entirely, and use every possible argument to discredit his Mesiahship, his works and the narratives relating to him. Christian Science corrects these widely differing beliefs.

Christianity was misunderstood by both Jews and Gentiles, because they misapprehended the nativity and object of its Founder.

The Jews, who had their own ideas as to what Messiah should be, refused to believe that the wisdom and power of God, whom they declared omnipotent and creator of all, could create anything contrary to their own belief of human conception.

The Gentiles, misconstruing the sayings of Jesus, hailed him as Saviour and king, but failed to recognize him as the Wayshower, and the exemplar of God's perfect man, whose works and ways they would have to emulate.

Christian Science declares that Christ Jesus represented the divine origin of man, rendering evidence, within the grasp of human comprehension, that God is the only creator. Jesus was different from all other men in that the divine nature predominated in him, while in all other men the human seems to predominate.

Jesus was Mary's highest human conception of the divine man. Christ was the spiritual and eternal nature imparted of God. Mary's human concept, or Jesus, passed away in the ascension; but the Christ, the divinely created man, who lived before Abraham was, continues to live forever.

LAND O'NOD STORIES

"This is Billy Be By Bo uum and I am Tinker Teedle Tee," said the merry little elf to the captain of the ant soldiers who had stopped them at the gate of the underground city. "We have come to pay a visit to the Queen, so open the gate and show us the way to the palace."

"Do Ants have a Queen?" whispered Billly.

"They surely do, and a most wonderful person she is too, as you will find out when you meet her."

The soldiers bowed politely to Tinker and Billy, and as they couldn't tip their hats, for of course ants don't wear hats, they waved the long, hair-like feelers or antannae that grew out from their heads, which was their way of saying, "We are very glad to see you Billy Be By Bo Bum, and you too Tinker Teedle Tee." Then they led the way to the gate of the underground city, which looked for all the world like a very deep and dark tunnel, as indeed it was.

"These fellows are sentnels," whispered Tinker as they entered the tunnel with two soldiers showing them the way. "All day long they guard the entrance to the city to see that no enemy of the Little People sneaks inside."

"Do ants have enemies?" asked Billy in surprise. 'At least enemies small enough to get inside an ant hill."

"I should say they do," Tinker replied. "Didn't you ever see an Ant Lion?"

"I once saw a lion at the circus, but I never knew they ate ants, and besides he was too big to get in here."

"Oh, I don't mean a circus lion," laughed Tinker. "An Ant Lion isn't like him at all at all. The fellow I am speaking of is a big, savage insect that goes around catching and eating ants. Now if he got into the city he would find his way to the nursury and kill and eat hundreds of baby ants and eggs that had not hatched out yet. So it is the duty of the sentinels to keep a sharp watch for him, and if he tries to force an entrance to thecity,the guards at the gate pitch into him and either drive him away or kill him.

"But the ants worse enemies are the inhabitants of other ant cities, for the ants are a war like people and they fight many a bloody battle with the armies of their enemies, bitter, merciless wars that never end until one or the other army is completely wiped out."

"Why I always imagined ants were quiet, peaceable little fellows," said Billy in surprise.

"They are quiet and peaceable in their own city all right," replied Tinker. "But just let a strange ant set foot in the dooryard surrounding their city, and the sentinels will rush down the hill and kill those intruders almost before you can say Jack Robinson. More than likely those few stragglers are the advance of an invading army, so the sentinels at once spread the alarm, and in a few miutes the plain will swarm with thousands of soldier ants ready to meet the enemy and drive away or die in the attempt.

"It is also the duty of the sentinels to see that the gate does not get clogged up and to keep the passageway leading down into the city free from dirt and rubbish that might get in the way of the workers returning home laden with food. They also act as undertakers and drag out the bodies of ants that have died far down in the underground galleries and roll them down the hill, for the ants are a cleanly little people and will not allow dirt of filth to pile up in their ryoy '-'rbekn hs mall BClBthlwir city.

"Then when it rains the sentines drag little balls of earth or clay to the entrance and stop up the gate so the water won't flood the city. Oh, the sentinels have plenty to keep them busy, I assure you, but we must hurry, or the Queen will have gone to bed before we arrive at the palace."

FARMERS GUESTS OF FOX HOUNDS CLUB.

Peacock, N. J., Oct. 23.—The Essex Fox Hounds Club is holding Farmers' Day today, and the leading farmers of this section of New Jersey are guests at a race meet which was arranged for their interest. The fox hunters are showing their appreciation of the farmers' liberality in allowing the hunt runs over their property. Six race events are on the card, with entries from the best private stables in northern New Jersey.

The General Says:—

"There are some very good reasons why my business is bigger each year than it was the year before."

Some years ago asphalt roofing was sold at high prices because the volume was small and facilities were limited.

When the General entered the field he broke up the high price combine by taking advantage of all possible manufacturing economies, thereby reducing production costs to the minimum and at the same time making a roofing of unexcelled quality.

Eventually the General became recognized as the leader of the entire field, and today the best known and largest used brand in the world is

Certain-teed
Roofing

The General's big success brought about an attempt by others to imitate his policies and prices, but they didn't have the General's wonderful facilities, nor his superior equipment, nor his big organization, and it was an economic impossibility for them to equal the General's quality and price. Consequently with the reduction in price there was a big reduction in quality, and these lower quality roofings began to be sold under labels that had formerly been used on better goods.

Today the market is flooded with low quality roofings, made to sell at cheap prices without regard to the service they will give.

When you roof your building with Certain-teed you have a responsible manufacturer's guarantee of 5, 10, or 15 years according to whether the thickness is 1, 2, or 3-ply respectively. This is your advance assurance that Certain-teed will give you at least a definite guaranteed service. Beware of guarantees without responsibility behind them.

Certain-teed products are used and well known the world over. Consult your local lumber and hardware dealers. They will quote you reasonable prices.

POSTMASTER LINCOLN.

What Happened When He Was Called Upon to Square Accounts.

On May 7, 1833, says F. F. Browne in "The Everyday Life of Abraham Lincoln," Lincoln was appointed postmaster at New Salem, Ill., by President Jackson. The duties of the position were light, for there was only one mail a week and the remuneration was correspondingly small.

The office was too insignificant to be considered politically, and it was given to the young man because every one liked him and because he was the only man willing to take it who could make out the returns. He was exceedingly pleased with the appointment because it gave him a chance to read every newspaper that was taken in the vicinity. He had never been able to get half the newspapers he wanted, and the office gave him the prospect of a constant feast. Not wishing to be tied to the office, since it yielded him no revenue that would reward him for the confinement, he made a postoffice of his hat. Whenever he went out he put the letters in his hat. When a person who expected a letter met the postmaster he found also the postoffice, and the public official, taking off his hat, looked over and delivered the mail wherever the public might find him. He kept the office until it was discontinued or was removed to Petersburg.

A small balance due the government remained in Lincoln's hands at the discontinuance of the office. Time passed on and he had removed to Springfield and was practicing law, having his place of business in Dr. Henry's office. Meanwhile his struggle with poverty was unabated, and he had often been obliged to borrow money from his friends to purchase the barest necessaries. It was at that juncture that a government agent called to make a settlement of the old postoffice accounts. The interview took place in the presence of Dr. Henry, who thus described it to Mr. Browne:

"I did not believe he had the money on hand to meet the draft, and I was about to call him aside and offer to lend him the money when he asked the agent to be seated. He went over to his trunk at his boarding house and returned with an old blue sock, in which a quantity of silver and copper coins was tied up. Untying the sock, he poured the contents upon the table and proceeded to count the coins.

"The government agent found that the pile contained the exact amount of the draft to a cent and in the identical coins that Mr. Lincoln had received. He never under any circumstances used trust funds."

IT WAS A TOUGH STEAK.

But the Restaurant Man Easily Fixed It When the Kick Came.

It happened in a downtown restaurant. A well dressed—as he always must be to make a good story—young man ordered a steak. The waitress, rather pretty—which qualification she must possess in writing a story of this kind—filled the order, and the young man started in to devour the feast which had been set before him.

The young man had no sooner started in on the steak than he discovered that he had a kick coming, and as the restaurant proprietor passed he stopped him by saying: "I can't eat this steak; entirely too tough. I wish you would see that I get better meats when I come in here."

"Too bad! That steak looks all right. But let me get you another." And the aforesaid proprietor took the steak, the silverware which had been served with it and departed. He soon returned with a steak which looked exactly like the first one. The young man picked up his knife and started at his second order. "Fine!" he said as his knife cut it apart without the least effort. The customer was pleased beyond words, and that he enjoyed the steak was evident, for he left only the plate.

As the reporter passed out he met the proprietor again, and this is what was said:

"That steak was all right, but the girl made a mistake in not giving him a sharper knife. All I did was to put the same steak on another plate and bring him a sharp knife. You have no idea what a difference a sharp knife makes with a steak from a beef of questionable age." — Columbus Dispatch.

To the College Boy.

When you enter college keep in mind the sound advice that a wise college president has offered to such as you. "Follow the preparatory school rules for the first year," he says. "Keep up the momentum that the school has given you rather than take advantage of your new liberty all at once. Watch the upper class men. See how they have improved or abused the freedom of the college life and the opportunities at the college and then deliberately make up your mind what kind of man you want to be."—Youth's Companion.

Can't Be Done.

"Doesn't she know they have been gossiping about her something awful?"

"If course she does. That's the reason she's trying to square the circle."—New York World.

DR. WOOD MAKES TALK ON HEALTH IN SCHOOLS

STATES THERE IS MORE DISEASE IN RURAL AMERICA THAN CITIES

Declares Assertion is Sustained by the Unprejudiced Study of Statistics Gathered From Many Sources—Speaks to Interested Audience at David Prince Building.

"There is at the present time more ill-health, more disease, among children and adults in rural America today than in our cities", said Dr. Thos. D. Wood of New York, chairman of the Committe on Health Problems in Education, of the National Educational Association, in an address before an interested audience of good size Monday evening in the David Prince school auditorium. Dr. Wood said he made this assertion "regretfully but confidently" and declared that it was sustained by the unprejudiced study of statistics gathered from many sources showing that country children attending the rural schools were less healthy and were handicapped by more physical defects than the children of the city, "including all the children of the slums". This was true, he said, in general of all parts of the United States.

Morgan County Conditions.

In referring to school conditions in Jacksonville observed during his stay here Monday, Dr. Wood had both commendation and criticism. The ventilation in one rural school, he said, was very bad and one city school building he referred to as in need of replacement. He spoke with praise of the open air school and said the system of self government in force at the high school was the best he had seen in many a day, an admirable method for securing discipline.

Dr. Wood was last week in Danville where he addressed the Illinois State Charities' conference. His appearance in Jacksonville was under joint auspices of the Morgan County Federation of Womans clubs and the Morgan County Medical society. Dr. Wood was introduced by Dr. George H. Stacy, the medical society president, and after the address there was discussion and a questionaire in which a number took part. Dr. Wood's lecture was illustrated by several well made charts. One of these showed graphically the relative amount of defect and disease in children of the city and children of the country schools. Another set forth reasons why parents, for the health of all concerned, should not permit children to attend school. Symptoms which require such parental attention he named as headaches, nausea and vomiting, new pains or coughs, a rash or breaking out on any portion of the body or the failure of the child to eat breakfast.

Cites Conditions in New York

Up to 1910, for one instance which he cited in proof of his contention, the death-rate in New York City was greater than in rural districts of New York State, but since 1910 the rural rate has been the greater, and, he concluded, "conditions in New York State may be taken on the whole, as typical of the country in general."

It is apparent", he continued, that within the last decade the actual and vaunted physical superiority of country people and children over those living in the city, have been reversed, and now it is confidently affirmed that for the entire population city dwellers are more healthy than those who dwell in rural districts; city life is more healthful than that of the country.

"It is just as true, however, and startlingly significant in view of the preceding statements that most of our best human material for the cities and for the nation must still come from the country. If rural America is still to be a satisfactory nursery for human life, it must be made healthful and attractive. It must furnish a generous fraction of the best of the population and it must provide conditions favorable for the cultivation of the best, at least so far as the biologic and all the fundamental qualities of life are concerned.

"The problem, then, of bringing about sufficient improvement in the healthfulness of rural life to provide a worthy birthplace and nursery for the best human stock, is not simply a problem of the rural school, of the farm, or of rural life in general, but it is a great, pressing problem of the nation affecting national safety, national prosperity and national perpetuity.

Gives Reasons For Conditions

"The most important reasons for the present physical inferiority of the people in the country are the following:

"Artificial selection, during the last half century especially, has drawn much of the best human stock from the country to the cities. Before that time the tide in the movement of population apparently carried more good human material to the rural regions than away from them.

"The second reason for the physical inferiority of country people in general is that the science and art of human welfare, have advanced much more rapidly in the cities than in the country districts. The problems of safety and comfort as affected by congestion of population and many other conditions of urban life, have thrust themselves upon human attention and have received much consideration. The art of human care has progressed much more slowly in the country. The father in the city spends on the average, a larger percentage of his income for the welfare of his family and of his children than does the father on the farm. The farmer relatively raises everything else more carefully and, as a rule, more successfully than his children.

"The third condition which helps to explain this astonishing inferiority of the country child is the environment. The country home and the country school are, on the average, less sanitary and healthful than the city home and the city school. It has been assumed that because the country child has all the features of the country he is, of course, surrounded by fortune and wholesome conditions. But the possession of all outdoors is far from enough. The farmer's home is, as a rule, insanitary in many respects. It is often terribly unventilated and the dwellers in the house are fed many hours a day with bad air. Country water and food are less wholesome than water and food in the city. Then standards of living on the American farm, when tested by the accepted principles of sanitation and hygiene are alarmingly defective.

"The rural school, from the standpoint of health and general fitness for its important use, is the worst type of buildings used for human beings but also those used for livestock and all domestic animals. Rural schools are, on the average, less adquate for their use than prisons, asylums, almshouses, stables, dairy-barns, pig pens, chicken houses, dog-kennels are for their uses.

"Another reason for the relatives deterioration of the quality and standards of rural life, or at least, a slower progress in the art of human welfare in the country as compared with the city, is to be found apparently in the fact of absentee ownership. At the present time 60 per cent of the farming lands in Illinois are controlleld by absentee landlords; or it may be stated in this way, 60 per cent of the land is tilled by tenant farmers. This seems undoubtedly that the average intelligence and consciousness of responsibility is relatively less than when more of the land was inhabited and tilled by the actual owners. One of the most important factors in the needed improvement of rural life must be the acceptance of a full and just share of responsibility by all the farms.

"Healthful and attractive rural schools are absolutely essential to the physical, mental, social, economic and moral well being of the children themselves, and to the life and welfare of the nation as a whole.

What Health Care Should Include.

"The health care of rural school children should include at least the following:

(a) Schoolhouses sanitary and attractive, well ventilated, lighted, cleaned, and equipped within and without with the health essentials.

(b) Teachers better trained and better paid to do their logical and full share in carrying out a health program.

(c) Health examinations, including dental inspection, once a year.

(d) Follow-up health work by district ad school nurses.

(e) Health care in the school including health instructions, warm school lunches, tooth brush drills and inculcation of all health hbbits.

(f) Provision for removal of injurious physical defects by dental clinics, health clinics, etc.

(g) Cooperation of all available individuals and organizations for the promotion of health and welfare of country school children.

WENT AFTER AUTO.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Martin and Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Kinney left Sunday morning for Indianapolis to bring back the National Highway Six which Mr. Martin sold to Mr. Kinney some time since. Because the factory is so far oversold on 1916 Nationals, there was some delay in securing a car, and for that reason the party went to Indianapolis when informed that a car would be ready for delivery Monday morning. They started from the factory about 3.25 o'clock Monday and found the roads in splendid condition. They expected to spend the night at a town near Decatur and will reach here this afternoon.

RAIDED A COMMISARY.

The police force raided a commisary Sunday and secured two gallons of whiskey. They had been informed that a certain party had received a large shipment. The house was watched and a customer was caught leaving the house. On being searched a pint of whiskey was found. The police entered the house and located the two gallons of whiskey which is now in the chief's office at the city hall.

SUNDAY GUESTS.

Last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Simms entertained Mrs. Simms' nephew, Horace Campbell, of Tallula; Mr. and Mrs. L. Irwin and sons, Kenneth and John, who came over from Springfield, in their White gas car, and Mrs. Simms' brother, Charles E. Beck and wife, who came from Decatur, the day before, in their Ford car.

PLACED UNDER BOND.

TAUGHT BY THE KING.

A Lesson Given by Frederick William III. to His Steward.

King Frederick William III. of Prussia was a man of few words. Whatever he had to say was always brief and to the point, as the following anecdote from a foreign journal shows:

The king, who was accustomed to interest himself in all the details of court management, ordered his steward to take special pains to see that all the carriages were amply supplied with food and drink whenever they left for a journey of a day or so, but it sometimes happened that the steward dispatched the drivers without any food, giving them a coin, perhaps, to buy what they wanted. That usually meant that the driver went hungry, as he did not have much opportunity to leave his horses and dine at a restaurant.

At length the king became aware of his steward's failure to carry out his orders and awaited the next opportunity to bring the fact to his attention. He had not long to wait. That night the king stopped his coachman as he entered the courtyard and upon inquiry found that the man had had nothing to eat since breakfast. He held out a dollar in his hand that the steward had given him to buy food with. Without a word the king took the dollar.

He went into the castle and summoned the steward. That worthy appeared immediately and made a profound bow, but as he raised himself up he was surprised to feel a coin placed against his mouth.

"Eat it!" ordered the king.

"But, your majesty, I"—

"Eat it!" the king again roared.

"Why, your majesty, I can't eat it!"

"Oh, you can't? But you expected the coachman to! Well, in the future just remember that—that people eat food, not money. Do you understand?"

The steward understood. In the future the king's coachmen were amply supplied with provisions whenever they went upon a journey.

MAPS ON GLOBES.

The Spheres, Made of Brown Paper, Are Wonderfully Strong.

Few people could say of what substance globe maps are made and would be astonished to hear that brown paper is the chief material used. A matrix of wood is covered with strips of brown paper which have been well smeared with paste. The paper is laid on the matrix until it is about a sixteenth of an inch thick and the globe looks like a round football. When this paper covering is dry it is cut midway between what will be the two poles, removed from the matrix, and after an axis has been fixed in it the two hemispheres are glued together. Then this sphere of brown paper is coated with a composition plaster, the ingredients of which are a trade secret, and again left to dry.

After being tested to see that it is an exact sphere the meridians are marked on the globe to guide the girls who finish the work. The globe is then fixed in a clamp, which holds its axis, and a girl takes the engraved gores, cut ready for use, and pastes them on without overlapping. If the globe is exact the gores should fit so exactly that you cannot see where they are in the completed globe.

When the gores have dried on the globe is colored by a hand process, which is also done by girls, and then polished. The globe is now ready to be mounted on its stand and to have its meridian fitted. Formerly, says the World's Work, when the industry was most flourishing, the metal and wood work connected with the fittings formed separate industries, but today the globe maker does the whole work on his own premises.

It might be mentioned that globes thus made are so strong that a man could stand on one and not break it. Indeed, you cannot break one without using great violence.

Tennyson and Barnum.

Tennyson was extremely eager at one time to visit America, and touching this point a story is related to the effect that Barnum offered him an enormous sum to make the trip, though probably not as one of the attractions of the "greatest show on earth." "All you have to do," said Barnum, "is to stand on a platform and have your hands well shaken." The poet, however, declined the offer.

How Bamboos Bloom.

Bamboo plants are said to have the peculiarity of blooming at exactly the same time, whether in Europe or Africa, the difference in climate and surroundings seeming to make no change in the plants bursting into flower. They blossom rarely, but as they die immediately afterward this cannot be deplored. The plant is said to be exquisitely graceful and is easily cultivated.

That Sinking Feeling.

Sometimes a simple phrase will tell more than a volume of description. In such a phrase a soldier describes his sensations on going under fire for the first time. "It was," he says, "as if some one had given me a smack below the chest with the flat of a heavy spade."

His Title.

"If it were customary in this country to confer titles upon men who go in for literature, what would I be?" asked a conceited journalist of his senior.

"Baron of Ideas," was the terse reply.

If we could learn to forget by forgiving many a heartache would cease today.

YATES URGED BY FRIENDS TO ENTER GOVERNORSHIP RACE

In Free-for-All Contest They Believe He Would Have Excellent Chance —Former Governor is Quoted as Saying He Will not Run.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 25, 1915—(Special to the Journal)—A boom for Richard Yates for governor was shifted to Chicago today by down state politicians. Reports were afloat that the delay in the Deneen camp in picking a candidate to pit against the Lowden-Thompson combination has led to an impression in the country districts that the G. O. P. primaries may develop into a "free for all."

On this theory several groups are reported to be preparing to trot new candidates into the paddock. The Yates boom was given a tryout in the lobby of the LaSalle by friends of the former governor who had come in from the Central counties to the Knights Templar conclave.

Later it was exhibited at the various republican ports of call around town. Mr. Yates himself, who is a member of the Public Utilities commission, was saying a week or so ago that he had no intention of being a candidate, but his friends insist on it that in go as you please contest they will urge him to run.

In 1908 he ran at the primaries against Deneen, with the support of the Lorimer faction. In 1912 Len Small had the backing of the Lorimer forces, but Yates entered and finished fourth in a field of eight.

WESLEYAN AFTER ILLINOIS GOAT

FOOTBALL GAME FRIDAY PROMISES A THRILLER.

Coach Harmon Sending His Men Through Hardest Practice of Season in Preparation for Contest—Wesleyan Coming Down in Special Car.

All roads will surely lead to Illinois college next Friday when Illinois and Wesleyan U. football teams clash, for what is considered the biggest game of the minor college conference and which will settle, in a great measure, the championship honors of the state. Illinois believes if she can get away with the game, Millikin will likewise be vanquished.

Coach Muhl is a veteran when it comes to building up a machine for a certain game and was shown by his victory over the strong William and Vashti squad last Saturday. He knows Illinois and its men like a book, has studied each player and according to dope will train his men for the special battle of Friday. Pitted against Coach Muhl will be Coach Harmon, who has been termed the "Wizard Coach", whose ability is not doubted by any other college eleven in the conference. All eyes of the entire group will be on the coming contest.

There ought to be 1500 people on the Illinois gridiron and the local students are planning to make it a gala day, with a big celebration if Illinois wins.

Wesleyan's Special Car.

Wesleyan players are not coming down alone, for if plans work out they will bring down a band and big bunch of rooters in a special car. Negotiations are now under way with the Chicago and Alton railroad.

The Bloomington Pantagraph says: The biggest game from a Bloomington viewpoint is that between Wesleyan and Illinois College, which will be played at Jacksonville on Friday. It is planned to run a special train to Jacksonville if the consent of the Wesleyan faculty can be secured and if there will be sufficient interests taken in the game by the Wesleyan rooters.

Boosters of the Methodist school believe that Illinois college is the team which Wesleyan will have to beat for the state title. Wesleyan has suffered one defeat at the hands of Lombard, while Illinois college won from the Galesburg lads one week previous by a score of 14 to 7. Illinois College has been seen in action and the locals are confident that they can defeat Coach Harmon's eleven. If they succeed in getting Illinois out of the way, they should be able to win the remaining games on their schedule.

The first four days of this week will be spent in hard practice. Thomas will be played at guard in place of Shirley, one of Muhl's best linemen, who broke his wrist Saturday. There are no other cripples on the squad and the team should be in good shape for their important trip.

Joe Catlin Injured.

Captain Joe Catlin, the star kicker of the Millikin U team, was injured in the contest Saturday with Lombard, and it is reported he may be out of the game for some time. Catlin was injured in the shoulder. The attendance at the Lombard-Millikin game was two thousand.

WESTMINSTER'S NEW PASTOR WILL COME JANUARY FIRST

Rev. W. I. Alexander Could Not Accept Call Unless Date Was Changed—Revival Meetings in Grand Island and the Reason.

Following the regular service of Westminster church Sunday morning a congregational meeting was held when a letter was read by W. J. Brady from Rev. W. I. Alexander, stating that he could not well come to Jacksonville until Jan. 1. The people by a vote then changed the call which had been previously extended, asking Mr. Alexander to come at the date indicated. It had been previously understood that the new minister would begin his work Nov. 1.

Mr. Alexander's change in plans was occasioned by preparations now being made in Grand Island, Neb., for a union revival service. Grand Island is not very far from Omaha, where the Billy Sunday meetings have been in progress for a number of weeks, and as a revival spirit seems to exist there, the churches of Grand Island decided upon the union evangelistic service. It is agreed that it is essential that the Presbyterian church of which Mr. Alexander is pastor take part in the services, and because of his wish not to interfere with this plan or in any way to detract from the evangelistic campaign, Mr. Alexander suggested that he could not come until Jan. 1.

In writing, he said frankly that he did not think it well for Westminster church to be without a pastor so long and not wait for him, but the people of Westminster are so well satisfied with the selection made that they readily voted to wait the additional two months.

FILES SUIT AGAINST LA CROSSE LUMBER CO.

Earl Lewis Asks Damages in Sum of $10,000 For Injuries Received While Loading Lumber.

John M. Butler, representing Earl Lewis on Monday filed the declaration in the suit of Lewis against the LaCrosse Lumber company. The suit is for damages in the sum of $10,000 for injuries received while loading lumber in the company's yards. Lewis at the time was in the employe of the city and went with other workmen to get some lumber. While loading it the pile fell and Lewis suffered a broken leg.

In his declaration Attorney Butler charges negligence. It is the first suit ever brought, so far as can be learned with the precise circumstances existing. It is the opinion of Mr. Butler that it will determine whether an action for damages will lie or whether it comes under the workmen's compensation act. The city also is liable to suit for damages under the workmen's compensation act.

WILL CELEBRATE HIS EIGHTY FIRST BIRTHDAY TODAY

H. M. Pratt Will Quietly Observe His Natal Day—Was a Native of Vermont.

Oct. 26, in Halifax, Vermont, H. M., the youngest child of Ebenezer and Elizabeth Pratt, was born and not long after the father was called from earth leaving a brave, heroic widow to battle with life and rear two sons and two daughters and she succeeded with the indomitable pluck and energy known to people of the far away Green Mountain state. All the children grew to be an honor to the mother who didn't marry again but kept on with her work and was blessed by her sons and daughters.

The family moved to North Adams a few years after the father's death and later to Springfield, Mass., where they remained some years. There when grown to manhood H. M. Pratt had charge of the restaurant in connection with the union railroad station and fed many celebrities in his day. Notable among others was Ben Butler, who liked the young man's bill of fare and the young man himself very much and when the great lawyer raised a regiment to go to the war he insisted Mr. Pratt should supply them with a meal as they passed through Springfield and he did it, feeding 1,100 men to the satisfaction of all concerned.

From the restaurant he went to work in an arms factory where hundreds of guns were turned out for use in the Civil war and remained there till 1864 when he yielded to the persuasions of his older brother to go to Nashville, Tenn., and there he lived in a house formerly occupied by the famous Confederate general, Hood and saw much of the fighting which took place in that vicinity.

He next moved to a town in this state where he conducted a general store for a time and then moved to Jacksonville where he has lived for almost fifty years.

He was at first yardmaster for the Wabash railroad and after that was a valued clerk and salesman of J. Ensminger in the warehouse and lumber yard of the latter. From that place he went to the firm of Fitzsimmons & Kreider for a time and then opened a coal office on his own account near the Wabash passenger station. For some years his health has been poor and he has been kindly cared for by his dutiful son Lew H. Pratt and family.

Mr. Pratt was twice married and both wives are dead. He is the father of one son, Lew H. Pratt, of this city, and has one grandchild and three great grandchildren. He is a man greatly respected for sterling integrity of character and upright dealing. His friends hope he will yet see many anniversaries.

THE J. H. S. FOOTBALL SITUATION DISCUSSED

At the regular assembly period of the Jacksonville high school Monday, when an address was made by Supt. Collins and snorter talks by Dale Doxell and Mr. Morrison, attention was called to the provision in the by-laws of the state association which prevents the securing of boys from out of town for purposes of athletics and has thus contributed to the present relative weakness of the local team. Mr. Collins urged the school as a whole to stand by the coach and team. The financial and physical disabilities which keep several men of good build off the team were mentioned and the practice of other schools in keeping up the training of second teams was mentioned as a disadvantage for the J. H. S. boys. On this year's scheduled, there are only representative schools and the team has not planned to meet places much smaller in size. The rule as quoted against going away from home after material is substantially as follows: No person whose parents are not residents of the high school district in which he is attending school until he shall have been in attendance one school year, excepting students of freshmen rank or students coming from districts having no accredited high schools which offer one year, two years, or three years of work, or do not offer work of the year in which the student is ranked."
